ABOUT AARON

Aaron Malloy is co-founder and CEO of Paralign Health, which operates a clinically integrated network of fire departments and EMS agencies delivering Mobile Integrated Health and Community Paramedicine (MIH-CP) in the home.

Paralign contracts with health plans on behalf of its member agencies, so the MIH clinicians in every community are paid for supporting high-need patients at home. The network began in Missouri and is now expanding into Florida. Before co-founding Paralign, Aaron was an Engagement Manager at McKinsey & Company focused on healthcare strategy and subsequently worked with the Massachusetts Department of Health and health systems in Texas. He then trained as a nationally registered EMT and worked on an ambulance in Revere, Massachusetts.
