ABOUT CARA

Cara Gluck, MPH is the Health Officer for Nassau County, bringing more than 20 years of public health leadership across preparedness, strategy, and community health.

As a key collaborator in Florida's Rural Health Transformation Program, she works closely with state partners, local organizations, and CommHIT to advance technology-enabled rural health solutions, strengthen data integration, and improve care coordination for underserved communities. Her leadership places strong emphasis on improving maternal and child health outcomes, expanding access to prenatal and postpartum services, and ensuring rural families benefit from coordinated, high-quality care. Prior to her current role, Ms. Gluck served in a range of public health and public safety positions, including leadership within Oklahoma's statewide Fusion Center, where she strengthened cross-sector communication and system readiness. At the Florida Department of Health–Nassau County, she continues to champion collaborative, community-driven approaches that build long-term health resilience across the region.
