ABOUT ASSISTANT DEPUTY SECRETARY BUSTOS

Jaime Bustos is the Assistant Deputy Secretary for Transparency and Provider Outreach at the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA), where he helps advance initiatives that improve healthcare transparency, stakeholder engagement, and access to actionable health information for Floridians.

In this leadership role, he works across government, healthcare providers, and community partners to support data-driven decision-making and strengthen Florida's healthcare system. With more than 15 years at AHCA, Assistant Deputy Secretary Bustos has held a series of increasingly influential roles spanning health information technology, policy analysis, transparency initiatives, and healthcare administration. His previous positions include Bureau Chief for the Florida Center for Health Information and Transparency, Administrator for the Office of Health Information Exchange and Policy Analysis, and Health IT Program Coordinator. Through these roles, he has helped guide statewide efforts involving health information exchange, healthcare quality, data analytics, and public reporting. Known for his collaborative approach and deep expertise in healthcare policy and information systems, Assistant Deputy Secretary Bustos plays a key role in advancing initiatives that support better healthcare outcomes for Florida's residents. He holds a BS in Information Technology from Florida State University.
