ABOUT NOËL

Noël Pugh, JD, PhD, MHA is Co-Founder and CEO of Lōvu Health, a maternal health company focused on improving outcomes for mothers and babies through connected care, remote monitoring, and personalized support.

A healthcare executive, entrepreneur, and strategist, Dr. Pugh has spent more than two decades designing and advancing care models that improve access, strengthen outcomes, and better connect patients to the services they need. Before founding Lōvu Health, Dr. Pugh held executive leadership roles in healthcare strategy, business development, and commercialization, including serving as Chief Strategy and Commercialization Officer at Medneon, an AI-driven genetic health platform acquired by Invitae. She has also led innovation, partnership, and growth initiatives with organizations including Mednax, HCA Healthcare, PatientPing, MedAmerica, and The Advisory Board Company. As a partner in CommHIT Everywhere, Dr. Pugh helps advance maternal health initiatives that connect rural mothers to monitoring, support services, and clinical resources throughout pregnancy and postpartum care. Her work focuses on ensuring that geography does not determine access to high-quality maternal care and that mothers receive timely, coordinated, and evidence-based support throughout their healthcare journey. Dr. Pugh completed doctoral studies in Healthcare Management and Economics at UTHealth Houston and earned both her Juris Doctor with a specialization in Health Care Law and Master of Health Administration from Saint Louis University.
